Forecast For Highland & Eilean Siar
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Wednesday 24 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Showery on Thursday, but northeast Highland becoming mostly dry.

This Evening and Tonight:
There will be a mixture of clear intervals and scattered showers, these more frequent over the Isles and West Highlands, with parts of the east having a mainly dry night Fresh to strong southwesterly winds in far north this evening. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Thursday:
Quite bright with some showers, these mainly in the south and west, with the best of the sunshine developing around Nairn Inverness and up to Caithness in the afternoon. Breezy. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Cold and bright with showers on Friday, turning wintry with snow high ground. Scattered showers on Saturday then becoming windy with rain later. Further rain or showers on Sunday. Windy.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.